

30,000 VISIT GREYSTONE

See Flower Show on the Estate of Samuel Untermyer

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

YONKERS, N. Y., Oct. 29.—A crowd of 30,000 persons today visited the free flower show at Samuel Untermyer's estate, Greystone, in this city. George Chisholm, superintendent, revealed that many of the visitors came from foreign lands and distant parts of this country as well as from the city and its environs to see the millions of chrysanthemums and pansies growing out of doors.

Additional policemen were necessary to facilitate the movement of traffic of the Albany Post Road and the movement of sightseers in and around the gardens. Both Mr. Untermyer and his son, Supreme Court Justice Irwin Untermyer, walked through the gardens and mingled with the crowds.

The gardens and several hot-houses will be open to the public tomorrow and Tuesday.

The New York Times

Published: October 30, 1939

Copyright © The New York Times